Olympia Little Theatre's 2022-2023 Season

Ghost of a Chance

By Flip Kobler & Cindy Marcas

In this farce, Bethany is bright, strong, independent, beautiful and has zero self esteem. She has brought her fiancée, Floyd, and his mother, Verna, up to her cabin in the woods, the site of the hunting accident that killed her first husband Chance. As luck would have it, his ghost is still there. Only Bethany can see him, so Floyd and Verna think she is crazy as she frantically tries to get rid of him. Chance, meanwhile, is doing everything he can to prevent Bethany from marrying Floyd. Bethany even brings in a delightfully kooky psychic to help deal with the ghost of Chance.

To Gillian on her 37th Birthday

By Michael Brady

This family drama revolves around the loss of a Wife/Mother and how her husband David holds on with walks on the beach where he romances her ghost even though she died two years ago. His daughter Rachel is also going through life but now she needs her dad to be present and not living in the past. This is a sensitive portrayal of grief and this character driven play makes it worth seeing.

Have Yourself a Crazy Little Christmas

By Collin Andrulonis

It's Molly's first year to host Christmas Eve and everything must be perfect. The kitchen table is beautifully set; the banana-blueberry pie is chilling in the fridge; the turkey is roasting; and everyone invited has a beautifully wrapped Christmas Eve present under the beautifully trimmed Christmas tree. What could possibly go wrong? Christmas carolers, who, won't stop coming. Molly's son, Johnathan has a shiner just in time for family photos, and it's only the beginning of a perfectly hilarious family holiday play perfect for every person, no matter what their age.

December 6-22

No Exit

By Jean-Paul Sartre

Two women and one man are locked up together in one hideous room in Hell. The windows are bricked up, there are no mirrors, the electric lights can never be turned off, and there is no exit. The irony of this Hell is that its torture is not of the rack and fire, but "Hell is other people" and being together for eternity. This situation leads to ironic and sarcastic exchanges. Their attempt to manipulate and torment each other can be seen as a twisted social comedy. Take a chance and step into Jean-Paul Sartre's existentialist world.

The Book Club Play

By Karen Zacarias

This Comedy is what happens when Ana, who lives in a letter perfect world with an adoring husband and her greatest passion, Book Club, becomes the focus of a documentary film. Their discussions about life and literature take a turn for the hilarious in front of the inescapable camera lens. Add a provocative new member along with some surprising new book titles, and these six friends are bound for pandemonium. The Book Club Play is a delightful new play about life, love, literature and the side-splitting results when friends start reading between the lines.

A Party to Murder

By Marcia Kash & Douglas E. Hughes

How about Halloween in May? In this Murder Mystery six people have come to play at a rustic island cottage on Halloween. Invited by writer Charles Prince, they hope for a fun weekend until ghosts from the past begin to haunt the proceedings, and it becomes clear not all is as it seems. Guests begin to die and soon the others realize they are playing for their lives. Secret passageways, hidden compartments, and bodies in the window seat, oh my. Take this journey to the unexpected and terrifying conclusion.
